History

Background

Idania is from the Tarvincial province in the world of Cuddling Gods.[1] Idania became an acolyte of Raezenoth mostly by accident; she wandered past when he was being attacked by someone attempting to ascend to godhood, and was granted acolytehood with which to rescue him.[2] After rescuing him, she remained in his priesthood.[3]

Meeting Eala and Vio

After winning a war against a nature deity, Raezenoth gives Idania some time to travel.[4] She stops after five days of flying at the first domain she sees and is greeted by Ealasiva.[5] Eala explains her unusually cooperative relationship with her divine neighbor Viokai and suggests Idania visit him; after leaving a joint offering and spending a few days exploring Eala's domain, Idania takes Eala's suggestion and crosses over to Vio's lands.[6] She passes a few more days meeting Vio and exploring his domain; finally she is approached in the woods by Syriel, whereupon the two women spend some time chatting and playing cards.[7]

Acolyte of Raezenoth

Relationship with Raezenoth

Idania and Raezenoth (or "Rae" as she calls him) have an unusual god/acolyte relationship; they are very close, but very informal.[8][9][10] When she talks to him, he will almost always respond to her, and as a rule he never lies to her.[11][12] She is not deferential to him, which he appreciates; when he visits, she is known to throw pillows at him.[13][14] They often play games of Arabek together, though Raezenoth always wins.[15]

Blessings

""Reflexes, protection from the desert's casual troubles - hot sand, sunburns, that sort of thing. The ability to go without water for days. Increased endurance, improved flexibility. And the winds will always go where you need them to, never off-balance you, always be at your back when you need them." -Raezenoth[16]

Idania's most obvious blessing is her ability to fly.[17] In addition, being under Raezenoth's blessings come with a variety of physical enhancements and immunity to negative effects of his domains of wind and desert- for example, her hair is never mussed by the wind and she is protected from sunburns.[18][19] She also has a luck blessing, granted by Viokai after painting his face pretty colors.[20]

Responsibilities

Idania spends a lot of time traveling and doing errands for Raezenoth.[21] She also helps spread the word of Raezenoth by helping to "fix things", typically by giving people the chance to help themselves.[22]
